NEW PHOTOPLAY

SPECIAL TO-NIGHT:
THE REDEMPTION—Kalem, Two Reels
A strong moral drama in which is proven the theory that "a criminal is only a criminal because he has not had the proper opportunity to develop an honest character".
"Red" Ellis, a knight of the underworld, on whom the experiment is tried, twice starts to betray Grey, his benefactor, but each time his conscience restrains him. The second time, however, his old gang outwits him and one of their number makes off with a necklace belonging to Grey. The guilt falls on Ellis, but Grey, still believing in Ellis, allows him to go, on his promise to recover the necklace in a half hour. The time has almost expired when he rushes in to Grey's parlor, gripping the necklace in his hand. With CARLYLE BLACKWELL and JANE WOLFE in the cast.
The third reel to-night will be:
BROKEN WAYS—Biograph
A western story of the past generation.

many convincing arguments that might be presented as to superiority of LIPPY CLOTHES, but we know none so conclusive as the refined appearance of the clothes themselves. There is beauty in every line and quality in every stitch and fibre.

EXERCISES OF COMMENCEMENT

Dr. J. S. Simon, of Hagerstown, Preaches Baccalaureate Sermon to Large Graduating Class. Other Services on Sunday.

The eighty first commencement week at Gettysburg College opened Sunday morning when the baccalaureate sermon to the graduates—sixty seven in number—was preached in College Church by Dr. J. S. Simon, of Hagerstown. The service was largely attended. Dr. Simon had for his theme "The Way to Supreme Manhood". He said in part:

It is when men are about to enter upon life in its larger relationships that they are tempted to be satisfied with those things which promise far less than supreme life. The spirit of the world seeks their homage, and in return promises power. It says to them, as it did to the Supreme Man, "All things will I give thee, if thou wilt fall down and worship me." The golden calf is unblushingly worshipped in the market places of the world.

Youth dreams its dreams and sees its visions, and the word and the flesh promise the substance of the dreams and the reality of the visions to all who will give up their high ideals. I say to you that the fondest and best dreamed dreams of success, whose ambition is lower than "the high calling of God in Christ Jesus" will prove to have been but shadows, in the other light that will shine upon them from the great White Throne in the eternal day.

The man who would win manhood's crown must be strong. Knowing God's will he must do it. Seeing the good he must espouse it. Confronting evil he must oppose it.

Strong men are needed in the world. The world waits for them. Its deep need demands them. Strong men will always find a place for work. Such men you ought to be. If your opportunities for culture have not brought to you the conviction that it is better to be obedient and sympathetic and strong than to be rich and powerful and famous, they have been wasted upon you.

Strong men are needed everywhere. They are needed in the gospel ministry. Ministers are needed with the fearlessness of the old prophets, with their convictions too, who will be unafraid in the discharge of their duty. Ministers are needed who never have but one answer to those who oppose the truth, "Whether it be right."

Strong men are needed in the commercial world, who will do right whatever the profits may be or may not be, who will not sell their manhood's crown for gold, who will feel a supreme contempt for meanness and cupidity.

Strong men are needed in the life of the nation. Strong men are needed everywhere. The Church calls for them. Humanity waits for them that they may bless it.

Weaklings can never attain to humanity's ideal. Compromisers compromise themselves alone. They who would win the crown must strive for it lawfully, they must put on their strength and press on until the last goal be reached.

Graduates of the class of 1913, are you deeply in earnest about what you shall do with your life? Bear in mind that the Christian religion alone puts a supreme value upon human life: "In the day that God created man, in the likeness of God made He him." The Great Teacher declares that your life is above price, "What shall it profit a man, if he shall gain the whole world and lose his own soul?" Surely you will not be such a fool as to sell yourself to the "world, the flesh, or the devil" at any price.

Are you serious minded about your earth career? Walk in the steps of Jesus Christ. Make Him your pattern. Be not enticed by new fashions. Jesus Christ, as a man, is what God wants you to be. Imitate Him.

Is it your ambition to attain the best? Seek the best in unity with God. Do not be satisfied until your life is a fitting expression of a "living soul." Refuse to be only a "hewer of wood and a drawer of water." Command the material but do not serve it.

Be obedient, be sympathetic, be strong; hate evil, fight sin, love righteousness. Be faithful to God and to yourself, and you shall have the crown in God's great day of commencement, "Be thou faithful unto death, and I will give thee a crown of life."

Evening Services

In the evening at half past six a song service was held in front of the Old Dormitory on the campus. The college orchestra played and a number of familiar hymns were sung. Rev. D. M. Moser read the Scripture, Rev. R. W. Mottern offered prayer and Rev. J. B. Baker made a brief address.

BUSY DAYS IN GETTYSBURG

Railroads Busy Laying New Tracks and Preparing to Handle Freight. Signal Corps to Send Messages from Round Top.

Work was started on Sunday at double tracking the Round Top branch of the Reading in order to be able to convey the trains of soldiers right to the camp site instead of making the veterans detrain in the town and walk or ride in vehicles to the camp. A big force of men was put on the task which will require some time to complete. By this double track it is believed that a great deal of time can be saved, both in the handling of passengers and freight trains.

The Western Maryland is laying eight tracks near the Hunterstown Road a mile east of town, and building a 500 foot freight platform on which a storage house 100 x 120 will be built. About fifty men are employed at the work and five of the tracks are already in place. One half of the platform has been built and the big water tank is in position.

The Pullman Car Company has booked 150 cars for the anniversary time. On account of lack of track facilities here it will be necessary to send these cars back to Harrisburg or some other nearby city as soon as they are unloaded and then returned to Gettysburg when they are again desired for use. The Pullman company will have a force of fifty men here to look after the cars. There will be car cleaners, ticket sellers and a full force of employees to meet all demands. They will be housed in three cars, a kitchen car and two sleepers.

The Gettysburg Anniversary Commission, after consultation with the War Department, announces to the daily newspaper press throughout the country that every arrangement for the comfort of the press men at the anniversary reunion has been made.

Daily newspapers receiving special dispatches from the anniversary from special correspondents will be allowed to send two writers and one photographer who shall carry credentials from the managing editor. They will be duly credited to Major J. E. Normoyle, U. S. A., who will have charge of the camp, and will be furnished with quarters and rations at a nominal price.

The press quarters will be in the center of the camp, near the big flag pole, and telegraph and telephone wires will be run to their working tent and every facility afforded them to get the news off quickly.

Col. Lewis E. Beiler, secretary of the State Commission, has been in consultation with the War Department for some time regarding this matter, and now has it arranged to the satisfaction of everybody. It is going to be a big history making event, and all of the great newspapers will be represented.

John C. Groome, of the state constabulary, was here Saturday with Colonel Beiler and others connected with the anniversary work. The state police will have their own camp which will be located on Nixon Field to the north of the running track. An entrance way will be made from Lincoln avenue so that it will not be necessary to take the horses across the track. It is said that Captain Groome is considering unloading his horses at Biglerville and having the state constables ride in from that town.

During the celebration a United States Signal Corps will be located on Little Round Top and will repeat all the messages that were sent from there during the three days of the battle. The same code will be used and the messages given just as they were fifty years ago. Records of the messages transmitted in this way in 1863 were carefully kept and will be followed by the Regular Army Corps.

Fire Marshal Baldwin, who was here last week in connection with anniversary matters, stated that he hoped to bring here some additional fire fighting apparatus and to have a force of men regularly employed and on duty for immediate service during the anniversary. Details will be worked out at a meeting of the town council Tuesday evening.

SUCCESSFUL FAIR

Fire Company Has Successful Fair and Festival in Engine House.

The Gettysburg Fire Company cleared between $200 and $225 from their fair and festival held on Friday and Saturday evenings. The Citizens' Band helped to make things attractive and the firemen are much pleased with the success of the undertaking.

TROOPS FOR THE STUDENTS' CAMP

Infantry now here to Remain for Students' Camp after Anniversary. Will be Joined by Other Troops Later on. Good Prospects.

About 20 schools and universities already have signified their intention of sending students to attend the military instruction camps to be held under the auspices of the War Department at Gettysburg July 7 to August 15 next, and at the Presidio, Monterey, California, from July 1 to August 8, inclusive. A hundred colleges were invited to participate.

Among the institutions which have assured the department that they will be represented are Yale, Harvard, Princeton and Cornell, the George Washington and Georgetown Universities, District of Columbia; Bingham School, North Carolina; Lehigh University, Pennsylvania; Ohio Northern University; Kentucky Military Institute; University of Arkansas; Colorado University; Oberlin College, Ohio; University of South Carolina; Virginia Military Institute; Agricultural and Mechanical College of Texas; Rutgers College, New Jersey; Clemson College, South Carolina; Washington and Lee University, Virginia.

The following officers have been detailed for duty at the Gettysburg camp: Major James H. McRae, Fifth Infantry; Capt. Preston Brown, Seventeenth Infantry; Capt. Berkeley Enoch, general staff; Capt. William T. Merry, general staff; Capt. Robert O. Van Horn, general staff; First Lieutenants Edwin Gunner and Joseph E. Ware, of the infantry arm, and First Lieutenants Henry T. Bull, Carl H. Muller and William R. Pope, of the cavalry.

There also will be here the Third Battalion of the Fifth Infantry and band; Troop A, Fifteenth Cavalry; Battery D, of the Third Field Artillery, as well as detachments from the Signal Troops and Medical Corps and a company of engineers who will give demonstrations in bridge building, field fortification and other practical engineering work.

"I have been very much pleased and gratified," said Secretary Garrison in a statement "with the interest shown by the college students and the encouragement given by prominent men throughout the country to the department's new and original plan of college student camps of instruction in military science. It shows plainly the immense current of patriotism beneath the surface still running strong and pure. There are few people who would not stand ready to serve their country in case of need, but it takes a little higher sort of patriotism and a greater insight into actual needs to give up six weeks of the prized vacation period to military training."

"Modern wars are short. Preparedness and organizations are the controlling factors. A declaration of war and invasion by the better prepared power occur on the same day at the present period of history. There will be no time in a future war with a progressive nation—should we ever be so unfortunate to become involved in one—for military training after the war has once started."

FIRST HONOR

Gettysburg Boy Receives High Honors at Drexel Institute.

Joseph J. Stock, son of George E. Stock, of Gettysburg, has finished his course in architecture at Drexel Institute in Philadelphia, and last week graduated from that large institution as the first honor man of his class. His fellow students showed their high regard for Mr. Stock's ability by electing him their class president. Mr. Stock's instructors predict a great future for him, and he has already received good offers from prominent architectural firms in several of our large cities. He is now spending several weeks at his home on Baltimore street.

REV. DAVID HOUGHTLIN

Former Gettysburg Resident Died Last Week in Iowa.

Rev. David McMillan Houghtlin died June 3d in Des Moines, Iowa. He was the son of W. H. and the late Ada McMillan Houghtlin, former well known residents of Gettysburg and a nephew of O. D. McMillan. He was a graduate of Baker University, Baldwin, Kansas, and the Boston School of Theology. He was a member of the Des Moines conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church. He was married in December 1911 to Miss Edith Archer, of Spencer, Iowa, who survives him.

WILL BE MARRIED

Jere Cooke will Wed Floretta Whaley Soon.

Some time within the next week or ten days, Jere Knode Cooke, the former Hempstead, N. Y., clergyman whose wife divorced him on Friday, will be married to Floretta Whaley with whom he eloped six years ago. The date of the marriage, Cooke's lawyer said to-day, has been set for the day Cooke receives a certified copy of the divorce decree from the Hartford, Conn., court that granted it.

"The honeymoon," said the lawyer, "will probably be an afternoon off, a good dinner and an evening at the theatre. They will not be married by a minister; the ceremony will be a civil one, although one of the most respected clergymen in New York has expressed his willingness to officiate. When I told them of the willingness of this minister to marry them, they thought it over but decided not to change their original plans for a civil marriage."

The lawyer and possibly Floretta Whaley's grandmother will witness the ceremony.—Cooke is working as usual at his trade as painter and decorator.

50 YEARS OLD

Fraternity Celebrating its Fiftieth Anniversary This Week.

Among the exercises of the week at college is the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of Theta Chapter of the Sigma Chi Fraternity. A large number of the alumni have returned for the events of the week which include a dance and reception this evening after the musical clubs' concert, a banquet at Hotel Gettysburg Tuesday evening and an automobile trip to Braddock Heights Wednesday evening. The life of the fraternity has always been more or less intimately connected with the town, a number of Gettysburg boys being included in the membership each year. Of the four founders of the chapter two are residents of Gettysburg, Dr. Bickle and Dr. Billheimer. There were four in the original chapter. Dr. Ziegenfuss, remembered by many Gettysburg people, died several years ago and Simon P. Mikesell, the fourth, is now living in Nebraska.

PATH OF THE SUN.

Its Relation to the Equinoxes and the Solstices.

The sun's path is called the ecliptic. It is a great circle of the celestial sphere, cutting the celestial equator at two points 180 degrees apart and making with it an angle of 23 1/2 degrees known as the obliquity of the ecliptic. The crossing points are called the equinoxes, because the days and nights are then equal, and the points midway between the equinoxes are the solstices, because the sun then seems to stand still for a few days.

The ecliptic is so called because eclipses occur only when the moon is crossing it or is near it, for the moon's orbit cuts the ecliptic in two points, called nodes or knots, and at other times is above or below it. If the moon, when in either node, is in line with the sun and the earth we have an eclipse, either total or annular. If she is near her node we have a partial eclipse.

The moon's nodes are not stationary, but move backward on the moon's orbit, completing a revolution in about nineteen years, when the eclipses of the period recur in the same order and at about the same intervals as before. This period of eighteen years and eleven days is called the saros. It was known to the Chaldeans and the Greeks and gave them their data for computing eclipses.

Any intelligent person can trace the sun's path in the heavens. If the sun rises exactly in the east and sets in the west it is the time of the equinoxes. If the sunrise and sunset points are farthest north and the sun at noonday is highest in the heavens it is the time of the summer solstice. If the sunrise and sunset points are farthest south and the sun is very low in the heavens at noonday it is the time of the winter solstice.—Harper's Weekly.

RUSSIA'S POLICE SYSTEM.

It Has an Assistant in Every House in St. Petersburg.

The Russian police system is extremely complicated, for it practically gives Russia an assistant policeman in every house in St. Petersburg. The landlord has a private porter or acts as porter himself. A porter has authority to make an arrest, and he is obliged to rush from the house to the street at the sound of a police whistle.

As there is a policeman stationed at every block, which is the limit of his beat, and as every policeman within a certain radius may respond with the porters to the signal, it takes but a few seconds to get a platoon of uniformed men, with almost a regiment of porter policemen together.

Russia has also a most elaborate system of training its policemen, and some time ago there was opened at St. Petersburg a fully equipped policeman's college, designed to train men in all the various duties of an officer of the law. At this college policemen are made familiar with the tools used by criminals, their teachers holding that they cannot become proficient policemen in any other way.

The Russian policeman attends lectures at which burglars' methods and instruments are explained, so that he can checkmate them, while he has the advantage of the criminal museum, which is attached to the college. There every appearance known to the breaker of the law must be experienced with until its every use is thoroughly understood.—London Tit-Bits.

A Good Doctor.

"Sunshine and fresh air are the greatest enemies of tuberculosis," says a medical authority. So sit on the sunny side of the house, the car, the office or the fishing pool. Get out in the field with the birds and the beasts. Face the breeze and don't be afraid of the gale. Roll the window shade ever up and never down. Make your sunshade over into a cane. Remember Dr. Sunshine is not only an enemy to tuberculosis, but to more diseases than you can remember to name, including the ingrowing grouch and many other things. So let him shine in!—Detroit Free Press.

A Curious Superstition.

Among the superstitions of the Seneca Indians was this most beautiful one: When a young maiden died they imprisoned a young bird until it first began to try its powers of song, and then, loading it with carresses and meows, they loosed its bonds over her grave in the belief that it would not fold its wings nor close its eyes until it had down to the spirit land and delivered its precious burden of affection to the loved and lost one.

SHERMAN LAW IN CASE OF MINERS

President and 18 Others Accused of Conspiracy.

OPERATORS ALSO INDICTED

Union Men Are Charged With Conspiring to Raise Wages to Prevent Competition of West Virginia Operators.

Charleston, W. Va., June 9.—President John P. White and eighteen other officials of the United Mine Workers of America were indicted in the federal court here on a charge of violating the Sherman anti-trust law.

It is alleged that they conspired with the coal operators of western Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois to raise wages in the West Virginia coal fields so as to prevent its competition with the other four states in the western market.

Further indictments that have resulted from the coal strike were returned by the federal grand jury. These indictments charge conspiracy against the W. H. Thomas Coal and Coke company, W. J. Pritchard, superintendent, and Samuel Tabor and William Thomas, employees. It is charged that the defendants arrested four miners and held them to work out a debt. The coal company operates in Mercer county, W. Va.

The indictments returned against the nineteen union officials are said to be the first ever made against the officials of the United Mine Workers of America charging them with violating the Sherman anti-trust law. It was commented that the indictment comes at a time when federal legislation is pending exempting labor unions from the provisions of the Sherman law.

The information on which the indictment is based is said to have been the result of an extended probe into conditions by District Attorney Harold A. Riz, of Bluefield, W. Va., and his assistant, H. D. Kummel, of Charleston.

The indictments charge that the nineteen men, affiliated with the United Mine Workers of America, did in Kanawha county, W. Va., and within the jurisdiction of the federal district court, engage in a combination and conspiracy in restraint of trade and commerce in the several states. The offense is said to have started Sept. 1, 1912, and continued since.

It is charged that the indicted men have been agents and members of "an unincorporated voluntary organization of individuals as a labor union known as the United Mine Workers of America, having many thousands of members, who unlawfully combined and conspired together with the object and intent of unionizing and making members of said organization the laborers employed in and around the coal mines of the state of West Virginia, in order that and with the intent that said organization by regulating the wage to be paid to said laborers for their work could and would be fixed and control the price at which the coal mines in the state of West Virginia could compete with coal mined in the western part of Pennsylvania and in the states of Ohio, Indiana and Illinois in the markets of the states of the United States outside of West Virginia."

The indictment alleges that coal produced in West Virginia, especially in Kanawha county, is shipped in competition with coal mined in the other states of the competitive field to the cities of Cincinnati, Columbus, Toledo and Cleveland, Ohio; Detroit, Indianapolis and Chicago, and that the contemplated organization of the West Virginia miners is to restrict the sale of the West Virginia coal in these markets.

Continuing, it is stated: "The organization fixes the wages of the miners of Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois, and it now intends to unionize the miners of West Virginia, and, if successful, to fix the price at which coal of West Virginia could be sold in the outside markets named, thus permitting the competitive states to compete more favorably in the western markets with the product shipped from West Virginia."

Probers Leave For West Virginia.

Washington, June 9.—The special sub-committee of the senate committee on education and labor left Washington this afternoon to begin at Charleston, W. Va., the investigation of industrial conditions in the coal mining region of that state. During their stay in West Virginia the sub-committee will make their headquarters in Charleston.

Editor Killed In Auto.

Erie, Pa., June 9.—Frank McLean, aged fifty years, editor of the Union City, Pa., Times, was instantly killed when his automobile was struck by a freight train at the Main street crossing in that city. Miss Bernice Barr, a school teacher, was probably fatally hurt. Four other occupants of the car received slight injuries.

Miss Davison Dies.

London, June 9.—Miss Emily Wilding Davison, the militant suffragette, who was knocked down and trampled on by King George's race horse Anmer when she rushed on the track and interfered with the running of the Derby last Wednesday, died at the Epsom Cottage hospital.

JUBILEE OF THE KAISER IS BEGUN

Celebrating 25th Anniversary of Accession to Throne.

Berlin, June 9.—At the beginning of this week of the celebration of Emperor William's twenty-fifth anniversary of his accession to the throne of the German empire, twenty-five rulers of German states are preparing to show fealty to their "War Lord," who has really been a "Peace Lord."

More than 3000 Americans are in Berlin to see the jubilee festivities. More than $30,000 has been spent in decorating the main streets. There will be military events, musical festivals, fete, Olympic games, grand opera and many banquets.

The Kaiser and his entire court and most of the visiting dignitaries have planned to attend the opening and dedication of the Olympic stadium on the edge of Grunewald forest, the second largest in the world, which has just been completed at a cost of $500,000. Twenty-five thousand athletes will take part in the contests.

One week will be devoted to prize events, one week to musical festivals and another to grand opera, with the Olympic games intermingling.

In addition to the twenty-five rulers of German states, including the kings of Saxony, Bavaria and Wurtemberg, special embassies have been sent by the United States and by all the European countries.

Great interest is being displayed by Berliners in Andrew Carnegie, the American peace advocate, who is to be a guest. Archduke Francis Ferdinand is to represent Emperor Francis Joseph of Austria.

It is expected that the Kaiser will signalize the jubilee by pardoning and commuting many prisoners. In addition he will probably raise many prominent Germans to the nobility, bestowing many titles and innumerable orders and decorations. It is whispered that an order will be given to Carnegie.

SHOT DEAD IN YARD

Two Women, One of Whom Found the Body, Held by Police.

Corry, Pa., June 9.—Frank Lynch, aged twenty-five years, was murdered by a shot through the right lung from a revolver.

Officers who were called by Mrs. Phoebe Wright found the body, still warm, in the back yard, where they say it must have been carried by the murderer and companion.

Pearl Kelly, twenty-two years old, an inmate of the Wright household, is locked up, also Mrs. Wright. The two women claim to have heard men fighting in the back yard and then the shot. There was no blood in the house and no weapon was found, so it is believed the murderer drove away.

TRAIN CRASHES INTO HOUSE

Mother and Daughter Killed as They Lay in Bed.

Bluefield, W. Va., June 9.—Four persons were killed instantly and two probably fatally injured when a Norfolk & Western fast freight train, drawn by two engines, plunged over a fifty-foot embankment and crashed into the two-story frame residence of Mrs. Phoebe Owens, killing Mrs. Owens and her daughter as they lay in bed. The dead included the engineer and fireman, who were caught under an engine and crushed to death.

Russia to Study Cotton.

Washington, June 9.—Secretary Houston has informed the Russian ambassador, through the state department, that every courtesy of the department of agriculture would be extended to Stanislaus Poniatowski, a Turkistan agricultural expert, who will come to this country to study the cotton experiment work.

LOBBY PROBE MAY INFLUENCE BILLS

Democrats Cannot Estimate Effect on Tariff.

TO BE A DIRECT ISSUE

Congress May Consider Stringent Measures to Do Away With Lobbying—Fight on Sugar and Wool.

Washington, June 9.—Neither President Wilson nor the Democratic managers of the two branches of congress could estimate what the effect the senate's remarkable "lobby investigation" is to have upon the progress of the tariff bill, the currency reform plan or other business of congress.

In the six days of grilling to which it has subjected senators themselves the investigation committee has gained information and opened up channels of investigation that are likely to have an important influence upon the whole course of legislation in the future.

President Wilson's charges that an unusually large "lobby" was engaged in trying to influence change in the tariff formed the basis for the inquiry now under way; but it has far outrun the scope of the tariff and has brought the senate committee up to the edge of what is expected to be one of the most searching inquiries ever conducted into the question of "legislative influences."

Progress on the tariff bill has not been hindered during the week by the lobby investigation; but it is believed that before the reconstructed Underwood bill finally gets into the senate for debate the lobby investigation will have become a direct issue in the fight. None of the alleged "lobbyists" has been questioned as yet; but facts brought out by senators on the wine stand, and the course the committee has determined upon for the future, make it clear that congress will be urged to consider:

A registration law, requiring every "lobbyist," legislative agent or other person who comes to Washington to influence legislation, to at once identify himself and the interests he represents.

The condemnation, and possibly prohibition, of the present system of "manufacturing sentiment" in a state, to influence the state's senators or representatives upon any certain legislative matter.

The chief influence of the lobby inquiry upon the present tariff revision probably will come in connection with the sugar and wool fights, around which will wage much of the forthcoming tariff debate in the senate. Well organized and extensive campaigns have been shown to exist on both sides of the sugar tariff question, and systematic activity by the wool protective forces has been testified to by many senators.

President Wilson's friends in the senate are gathering material as the hearing progresses to support his free sugar stand by an effort to show that Louisiana, Hawaiian and Porto Rican cane growers and American beet sugar manufacturers have exhausted all possible means to arouse public sentiment against free sugar.

Fully as vigorous a fight will be made on the other side, to prove from the testimony of the lobby hearings, that cane sugar refiners, particularly the Federal Sugar Refining company, have been the bone and sinew of the free sugar campaign and would be the chief beneficiaries if President Wilson's recommendations for free sugar in 1916 are carried out.

CURRENCY MESSAGE SOON

President's Views on Finance May Reach Congress Tomorrow.

Washington, June 9.—Members of the house banking and currency committee expect President Wilson to send to congress, probably tomorrow, his message on currency reform.

They do not expect any specific detailed plan or administration draft of a currency measure.

Whether all meetings of the committee will be open depends largely upon recommendations of a sub-committee. Some of the Democrats on the committee expect to be called to the White House to discuss the president's views on that point, the expression of which they understand is to be withheld from the formal message.

COURTKNOCKS OUT VETERANS

Kills California Appropriation to Send Them to Gettysburg.

Sacramento, Cal., June 9.—The legislative measure appropriating $15,000 for the transportation of Civil War veterans of this state to the fiftieth anniversary celebration to be held next month at Gettysburg, was killed by a decision of the California court of appeals, passing on a test case presented by the state controller.

Indian Who Killed Six Slain by Brother.

Searchlight, Nev., June 9.—The career of Quecho Half, the Plute Indian who ran wild and killed half a dozen miners and homesteaders near Fort Mohave three years ago has ended. Word was brought to Searchlight that the Indian, on whose head were placed rewards aggregating $5000, had met death at the hands of his brother and uncle, whom he tried to kill in a tribal camp in Arizona.

OIL TRUST FIREMEN THREATEN TO STRIKE

75,000 Men May Demand an Eight-Hour Day.

New York, June 9.—Delegates from the local branches of the International Brotherhood of Stationary Firemen in the states of New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware and Connecticut held a special meeting at the central headquarters in the union here, at which the questions of demanding better conditions for the workers in the different plants of the Standard Oil company was taken up.

The chairman was Timothy Healy, president of the Brotherhood, who denounced the alleged treatment of the firemen, others and others in these plants as beyond endurance. It was decided to start organizing the men thoroughly in preparation for making a demand in all the plants for the eight-hour workday, the present working hour, it was stated, being seven-and-a-half hours.

It was also decided that a demand will be made on the state labor department of New Jersey, where most of the largest plants of the company are, to start an investigation of the conditions under which the Standard Oil company's employees are working. According to the officers of the Brotherhood, most of the 75,000 employees of the company are ready to strike, but before any action of this nature was taken it was stated they will wait for the result of the investigation which is to be demanded.

HER ALIMONY REDUCED

Woman Who Asked For $78,000 Yearly to Get $15,000.

New York, June 9.—Fifteen thousand dollars a year alimony instead of the $78,000 she requested was awarded by Supreme Court Justice Aspinwall to Mrs. Blanche Heye, who is suing her husband, George G. Heye, a New York banker, for absolute divorce.

The amount is to be paid pending trial of the suit, together with $25,000 counsel fees. When Justice Aspinwall first considered Mrs. Heye's application for $78,000 alimony he denounced it as preposterous.

MINE BLAST KILLS 2, HURTS 13

Many Rescued From Colliery Near Shamokin, Pa.

DEAD ARE BADLY MUTILATED

Eager Relatives of Men Crowd About Shaft as Cages Bring Up the Victims.

Shamokin, Pa., June 9.—In a gas explosion at the Scott shaft, a Susquehanna Coal company operation, two men were instantly killed, one was terribly mangled on the head, arms and legs, four were burned, one was badly squeezed and seven overcome by the bad air which filled the workings immediately following the accident. Twenty-four men narrowly escaped death.

The dead are George Saduskie and Steve Worgus.

The injured are: Lewis Harris, right leg broken and crushed, internal injuries fatal; Peter Harris, Stanny Yedo navage, Edward Becker, Stanny Silkus.

Seven other men were overcome by the black damp following the explosion and were rescued and resuscitated with much difficulty.

The scene at the top of the shaft was distressing during the first two hours. Hundreds of ears listened for the tap of the gong in the engine house ordering the engineer to hoist the cage from the deep, indicating that one or more dead or injured men were about to be hoisted. As each arrived at the surface the crowd was eager to ascertain his or their names.

The first body recovered was that of Steve Worgus, which was found in the third from the last breast. He was horribly crushed and burned.

In the same breast, about fifteen minutes later, the body of George Saduskie was located. He, too, had been caught full by the terrific blast, and his body was crushed into a shapeless mass. His son, George, Jr., aided in placing his father's body on the cage at the bottom of the shaft.

The young man was employed as a driver, and following the explosion was directed to aid in loading the dead and injured. When his father's remains arrived on a stretcher they were covered with a rubber blanket. The young man asked who the victim was, but could not ascertain his name from anybody.

The boy continued assisting at the bottom of the shaft until all the dead and injured had been removed, after which he hurried to his home at Mount Carmel, believing that his father was among those who had escaped. He did not learn of his death until he reached home.

Stanny Silkus, one of the first men sent to his home after he was removed from the mine, returned to the colliery to help in the work of rescue. He said he was seated on a supply box along the gangway, and he added: "Something came just like a storm and a big spark, a big roar followed and I was knocked with my two buds about fifteen feet. They were burned. I ran out, yelling for help. First aid fellows took charge of me and when I came up I jumped into an ambulance and went home."

It is generally believed that the explosion was caused by a miner either opening his safety lamp to light a shot or by a pipe. In all probability the gas had gathered in a vast quantity at the face of one of the breasts, he believed to have been the one in which Worgus and Saduskie were killed, and was ignited.

FIND WOOD NOT GUILTY

Jurors Convict Allen and Disagree as to Atteaux.

Boston, June 9.—William Wood, president of the American Woolen company, was acquitted on all of the counts in the indictment charging him with having conspired unlawfully to "plant" dynamite in Lawrence during the textile strike of 1912, in order to discredit the striking mill workers.

Disagreement was reported in the case of Frederick E. Atteaux, the rich dye stuff manufacturer. On the first four counts of the indictment against Atteaux the jury could not agree, but acquitted him on the fifth. The court ordered that bail for Atteaux be renewed pending disposition of his case.

Dennis J. Collins, a Cambridge box fancier, who turned state's evidence, was found guilty on two counts and not guilty on the other four counts of the indictment.

Rotten Eggs as Missiles.

WOMAN SWALLOWS POISON BY MISTAKE

Took Bichloride of Mercury and May Live.

Washington, June 9.—Prompt action by her husband has probably saved the life of Mrs. H. B. Sanford, of this city, who took three bichloride of mercury tablets, mistaking the powerful corrosive poison for aspirin.

Mrs. Sanford is still ill at the Casualty hospital, but the physicians express reasonable confidence that she will recover. Immediately after dinner Mrs. Sanford complained of a headache. She left the living room and went to the bathroom, where she picked up a small bottle, rolled three of the tablets into the palm of her hand and reduced them to a powder. She then took the dose.

Returning to the living room, she complained to Mr. Sanford that she felt a burning sensation in her throat. The husband, who is an experienced pharmacist, made a hasty examination of the bottle. Instantly he was convinced of the danger confronting his wife.

First he fed to her the whites of eight eggs and then as fast as feet could carry them the couple started on a run for the hospital. Emetics were administered and the stomach pump applied. Mrs. Sanford had just before taken a hearty meal, and the physicians believe that this will have a tendency to minimize the danger.

The physicians say Mrs. Sanford's case is hardly analogous to that of Saunders Walker, the Georgia banker, whose sensational case awakened national interest last month. Walker did not discover his danger until after the poison had been in his system for a day. Mrs. Sanford was under treatment a few minutes after the accident.

FIREBUG ON HUNGER STRIKE

His Counsel Also Picks New Flaw in Indictment.

Danville, Pa., June 9.—Contrary to expectations, sentence was not pronounced on W. F. Slagle, convicted of setting fire to his warehouse with intentions to defraud the insurance companies.

The defense has picked a flaw in the indictment, setting out that the defendant could only have been charged with attempting to set fire to his place.

Slagle has gone on a hunger strike and has refused all food since being committed to jail, following the verdict. He declares he can starve himself to death in thirty days.

Panama Bars the Chinese.

Panama, June 9.—Bélaissari Porras, president of the republic, signed a decree prohibiting the future naturalization of Chinese. The 1911 census showed 2313 Chinese on the isthmus, 463 of whom were native-born or naturalized. About fifty became naturalized within the last two years.

Woman Dies in 100th Year.

Lock Haven, Pa., June 9.—After rounding out almost 100 years, Mrs. Emeline Johnson, Lock Haven's oldest resident, died of congestion of the lungs. Mrs. Johnson was born in Cooperstown, N. Y., Nov. 17, 1813.

IN THE WORLD OF SPORT

Mordecai Brown Will Be Heard From, Says Tinker.

Manager Joe Tinker of the Cincinnati Reds says that Mordecai Brown, the veteran pitcher of the Reds, is not all in, as some critics think. "He is far from it," says Joseph. "When the real hot weather comes around the old three fingered wonder will be right there with the goods," adds the Reds' leader. In several games in which he has taken part the veteran has given flashes of his old time form. Last winter when he was released by the Chicago Cubs it was thought his twilight days were over. Brown claims that a bad knee hampered him from pitching good ball last year. Four years ago Brown was considered the best pitcher in the National league. His stunts in the box materially aided the Cubs in capturing a few pennants and two world's championships.

Princeton Wants Amateur Coach.

As a result of the publication of the annual report of the advisory committee of the Princeton University Rowing association it became known recently that it is the determination of those in charge of the rowing situation that the sport shall be maintained on a strictly amateur basis as regards the coaching of the crews. No paid coaches or trainers are to be employed, and the Tiger eights are to be in charge of those who are interested purely for the sake of the sport.

The committee report says, "Many alumni feel that through the employment of professional coaches and trainers to the extent that is now the custom some of our college sports are but a shade removed from professionalism, and for this reason it is the determination of this committee and also of Dr. J. Duncan Speath of the university faculty, who is director of rowing and head coach of the varsity, that this sport shall be kept on a strictly amateur basis and expenses kept down to a minimum."

Amherst Disavows Summer Baseball.

After three years of intermittent discussion, during which no definite stand on the matter was taken, the athletic board of Amherst college voted that summer baseball be prohibited. The student body in a recent chapel vote showed strong sentiment in favor of allowing men to play ball for money during the summer vacation, but the majority of the faculty were against such action. In the official vote of the board which decided the matter the student representatives were for summer baseball, the faculty against it and the alumni evenly split.

No method of suppression has been agreed upon yet, but a committee will be soon set to work devising regulations. Previous to the three years of indecision Amherst had a rule against summer baseball.

Bridwell Tells a Secret on McGraw.

At Bridwell, former shortstop of the Giants, has let out the secret of John J. McGraw's success as a manager. He said: "McGraw's scheme of breaking up the hit and run play is one of the principal features of his success. He does not allow his shortstop or second baseman to dash over to the bag until after the batter hits. In this way, if the batter does not connect, the infielders are still in position to get the ball. That is the way he often breaks up the play."

Baseball League For Cuba.

Victor Munoz, the Havana baseball writer, is behind a movement to form a Cuban baseball league composed of three teams in Havana and others in Matanzas, Cienfuegos and Santiago. He says that the game has not advanced far enough yet for the idea to be popular, but that in a few years' time he will have such a league play on the island every winter.

Wells to Box Carpenter.

Bombardier Wells of England has been matched with Georges Carpentier, French champion, for twenty pounds, June 28, in Paris. The contest will take the place of the Johnson-Palger match.

She Wouldn't Discuss It

By EDWARD K. BLUNT

We are apt to consider the suffragist movement a new thing. Its present incentive is new. For half a century women have been entering fields formerly occupied by men, and this has changed them from dependence to independence. But so far back as history speaks women have made efforts to throw off the yoke and act and think for themselves. They have not in past times grown gradually into power. They have usually attempted to grasp and use it all at once unaided by the experience of men.

When, many centuries ago, King Pollock died he left the crown to his daughter, the Princess Miranda. Queen Miranda was one of those women who by nature crave leadership. The queen, who from an early age had been interested in the emancipation of her sex, upon her accession proposed to keep the power in her own hands. She would not be continually consulting persons, as is common with presidents of the United States, nor would she permit her heads of departments to debate with her. But she didn't intend to be autocratic, she said. "What she did intend was not to be beaten hither and thither like a ship without a rudder. Moreover, she prided herself upon her legal attainments and declared that all her acts should be judicial."

Soon after her accession while the queen was holding an audience her chief justice begged an interview and stated that a certain tax that had been proposed at her instigation was unconstitutional. The queen heard him through to the end—with difficulty—then said to him: "Your arguments are all wrong. The tax is an excellent one. It will be adopted."

"In what respect, your majesty, are my arguments defective?" asked the chief justice.

"I will not discuss the matter," replied the queen.

The chief justice gave the queen one look of astonishment and withdrew. The minister of foreign affairs entered. "Your majesty," he said, "our neighbors, the Polyphemians, have demanded an indemnity for an incursion recently made by some of your subjects into their territory whereby much grain and other property were destroyed."

"Give me an account of the matter," said the queen.

The minister narrated the facts, ending up with the statement that the Polyphemians were entitled to be paid for their losses.

"You are all wrong," said the queen. "I am quite familiar with international law, and in this case no indemnity should be paid."

"But, your majesty—"

"I will not discuss the matter."

The foreign minister, who had for many years kept the late king at peace with his neighbors, stood for a moment looking as if the earth had opened before him and was about to swallow him up; then, bowing low, left the royal presence.

The next caller was the minister of state, who desired to dissuade the queen from a bill she had set her heart on. It was to tax bachelors. He received the same replies as the others. The queen said he was all wrong in the matter.

"But your majesty has not heard the reasons why I fear a detrimental effect from this bill if passed."

"Nor do I wish to hear them. That would involve a discussion, and I will not discuss the matter."

The commander in chief of the army came in next. The queen's foreign policy was already showing signs of disturbing her amiable relations with neighboring powers, and, fearing war, he had called with a view to urge an increase of the army.

"I am for peace," was the queen's laconic reply to his arguments.

"But, your majesty, there is an adage 'In time of peace prepare war.'"

The queen cut him short with the usual refusal to discuss the matter, and the general got out like the rest.

It was not long before the minister of internal revenue announced that a mob had gathered to resist the enforcement of the tax she had levied. The minister of foreign affairs reported that the Polyphemians had given her ambassador his walking papers. The minister of state sent word that nine-tenths of the bachelors of the kingdom and moved across the border into that of the Polyphemians, thus depriving her of their services in case of war and becoming an auxiliary to the king of Polyphemia. The general in chief of the army reported that a war begun at hand he would like instructions as to the disposition of her messenger forces.

The only one of these officials the queen replied to was the general in chief, whom she condescended to ask what she had better do. He replied that any opinion from him would be insubordinate, inasmuch as he well knew her majesty was not accustomed to discuss her measures with her heads of departments. Besides, since she was for peace, doubtless she had other methods of preserving it than by the untidy method of war.

There was now no time for the queen to "discuss the matter," for the Polyphemians came down with a large army, the vanguard of which was composed of the taxed bachelors. The queen was deposed, and one of the bachelors, the worst of old baldheaded, snaggle toothed woman hater among them, was made king.

It is questionable whether or not in the long run there is any gain in putting the seed of a given vegetable in the ground before the season for it. The stuff comes on slowly before it warms up and is likely to be stunted and not to do so well as that from seeds planted quite awhile later.
